MAKE-UP OF NEW SCHOOLS COMMITTEE MADE PUBLIC

Council Announces Names Of Those Who Are Asked To Serve

GENERAL PLAN

Action Follows Recommendations Made By University Official

Names of those who are being asked by the Municipal Council to serve on the new General Educational Committee are announced in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette. The proposal to organise such a committee, similar to a committee that was organised in 1911, was presented by Mr. N. O. Liddell, Secretary and Commissioner General, following a report upon municipal schools thatt was presented recently by the Registrar of Hongkong University. This report urged that a number of fundamental changes be made in the educational policy of the Council.

Concerning the school repoort that was presented, an earlier official announcement set forth that while members of the Council "recognise that to some extent the Registrar's criticism and recommendations, in so far as they touch upon the question of the Council's educational policy may be based on an incomplete appreciation of local conditions and ignorance of the findings of the 1911 General Educational Committee and the reasons therefor, but having regard to the great importance of the matter they concur that these findings and the Registrar's views should fittingly be referred to a new General Educational Committee, whose report could then be laid before the ratepayers in due course for their adoption."

THOSE NOMINATED

Those who are asked to serve on the new General Educational Committee are as follows:

Members of the Permanent Educational Committee—Dr. F. L. Hawks Pott, Rev. A. N. Rowland, Rev. Dr. D. MacGillivray and Mr. C. P. Dawson.

Dr. David Z. T. Yui, people's delegate to the Washington Conference, has been nominated by Dr. C. T. Wang, Shantung Rehabilitation Director, to be Minister of Education, to succeed Mr. Kao En-hung who has been frequently attacked by the teachers in Peking. However, it is not likely that Dr. Yui will accept in view of the many declarations he has made that he would not accept any governmental office at present.

Nanking Orders Withdrawal Of Debenture Issue

Because of the serious objection to the issuance of the prize-bearing debentures of the Province of Kiangsu, the provincial authorities have withdrawn the issuance, while the debentures already sold will be redeemed at par, according to a telegram received from Nanking yesterday. Mr. Yen Chia-tsu, the financial chief of the province who has been in Shanghai to negotiate with the local bankers for the issue, has been instructed to return to Nanking immediately.

Next House To Be Composed Of Three Parties

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, June 17.—Returns from all but a few provinces have been received, and it is now safe to say that the general elections in the Philippines on June 6 have resulted in a complete repudiation of the Nacionalista Party, which has dominated island politics for the last fifteen years.

The Philippine House of Representatives, which formerly had ninety percent of Nacionalista members, is now composed of three parties almost equal numerically, —the Democratas, Collectivists, and Nacionalistas. Of these, the Democratas have a slight plurality, while the Collectives and Nacionalistas have slightly less.

In the Senate, the Collectivists will have a plurality, with the Democratas increased from one to six, and the Nacionalistas about the same.

It is evident from the election results that legislation at the next session will have to be carried on by compromise between two of the three parties. Rumors of fusion of the Democratas and Collectivists are already current, and it is probable that they will come to some understanding, although Philippine politics change so suddenly that it would surprise no one if the Collectivists and Nacionalistas combined.

It is felt, however, that General Wood's position as Governor has been greatly strengthened by the break-up of the Nacionlista party. The Democratas are nominally in favor of the familiar formula, "complete, absolute and immedia e independence," but in practice are believed to be more alive to the benefits of the American occupation.

Both Mr. Quezon and Mr. Osmena were elected to the Senate and are expected to head the Collectivist and Nacionalista parties as before. The best known Democrata leader is Mr. Emiliano Tirona, a former insurrecto general.

The elections this year are conceded to have been far more honest and orderly than any held previously. Two or three slight disturbances were reported and some protests have been fled, but otherwise the voting went off smoothly. Expenses of all the candidates, including Provincial Governors and Councillors, are estimated at more than 15 million pesos. The cost to the Government was also heavy, most of it being due to the fact that new and "fraud proof" ballot boxes were used.

CONFISCATION OF 'RED' LITERATURE IS AUTHORISED

Mixed Court Enters Order Permitting Seizure Of Propaganda

An order authorising the confiscation of Bolshevik literature captured by the police in a raid on the premises at Nos. 356 and 357 Taku Road was entered in the Mixed Court by Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Yui yesterday on the application of Inspector T. P. Givens of the Central Police.

In asking for the order, Inspector Givens recalled to the court that on June 9 he had made application to have the premises on Taku Road sealed on the ground that they were being used as a center for the dissemination of Bolshevik ideas.

"A letter was received at the Mixed Court on June 20 from one Tsang Ngoo-hoen saying that his friend Fong Koh-tsang, the tenant of No. 356 Taku Road, who had returned to Shanghai and could be found at 263 Voo Nyen Lee, South Chengtu Road, wanted to have his books, etc., returned," said Inspector Givens. "A further letter was received on June 21 from Tsang saying that Fong had been suddenly recalled to Hangchow. Apart from this communication, nothing has been heard from the owners of the houses.

"The police feel convinced that nobody is likely to come forward to claim possession of the contents of the houses, and would therefore request the courts make an order for the confiscation of the books and inflammatory literature on the premises.

"An examination made since this matter was last before the Court show that these houses contain 140 Chinese, 144 Japanese, 85 English and 12 French books as well seven periodicals. The bulk of the publications treat on Bolshevistic and socialistic subjects, and the majority of them are written by the advocates of these doctrines or their sympathisers.

"From the examination of the literature and other contents of the houses, it is evident that the place was used as the headquarters of three different organisations, viz: The Young Men's Socialist League, the Anti-Christian Students' League, and Marx Literature Research Society. The majority of the books bore the stamp of the Young Men's Socialist League.

"The chop of the Anti-Christian Students' League was found as well as hand books and circulars issued in its name. Tsang Ngoo-hoen who wrote the letter about re-opening the premises is head of the movement.

"The chop of the Marx Literature Research Society, a block for printing his picture and litera-

MOVIES WILL SHOW NATURE OF MUNICIPAL ACTIVITIES

Project To Make Films Of Departmental Work Advanced

PLAN OUTLINED

Public Exhibition Of Pictures May Also Be Authorised

Moving pictures of the varied activities of municipal departments in Shanghai probably will be introduced as a departure to make public records more complete and to serve as a means of information for future administrations. This announcement is set forth in the current issue of the Municipal Gazette.

"The suggestion is made," says the official announcement, "that it would be a great advantage to future Councillors if a series of films depicting various branches of municipal activity could be taken and shown to each Council shortly after its assumption of office.

"It is not suggested that such films should take the place of visits of inspection, but that to the extent to which visits could not be carried out or at least until carried out, they would be of real assistance to members in their deliberations on matters municipal.

"It is suggested that it might be of advantage for the Council to purchase its own filming and operating machine and inquiry is made as to whether members would be inclined favorably to consider the matter. Members reply in the affirmative and also indicate that they would favor the exhibition of such films to the public. The matter will accordingly be the subject of further report."

COUNCIL DENIES CLUB LICENSE TO SEAMEN'S UNION

Chinese Workers Planned To Open Branch Quarters At 163 Broadway

Application to the Municipal Council by the newly organised Chinese Seamen's Union for recognition in the form of a certificate of registration as a club has been denied, according to announcement carried in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette.

In connection with the application, presented by Mr. P. W. Goldring on behalf of the organisation, it was set forth that . . . "The Union proposes to open their branch at No. 163 Broadway with Mr. Lum Wai-man as Secretary and Mr. Chung Shui-pang as President." Accompanying the application was a translation of the rules of the union

Replying to the application Mr. N. O. Liddell, Secretary of the Council, said, "I am directed to inform you that no official recognition is ever granted by the Council to any Union or Guild, and that, from the particulars which have been furnished, it does not appear that the Chinese Seamen's Union, under present conditions, comes within the requirements in the case of clubs, for which application for the issuance of a license by the Council is requisite."

TWELVE GIVEN DIPLOMAS AT McTYEIRE HIGH

Interesting Program Held At Commencement Of Noted Institution

Twelve young ladies received their graduating diplomas from the McTyeire High School yesterday when an interesting program was held at Moore Memorial Hall in commemoration of the school's annual commencement. A large and enthusistic audience was in attendance. Miss M. E. Pyle, principal of the school, was in the chair and was supported by Dr. P. W. Kuo, president of the Southwestern University; Mr. N. T. Yang, representing the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs; Bishop L. J. Birney and others.

The program began with a song by the school chorus entitled "I will lift up Mine Eyes." Mr. Sze, pastor of Moore Memorial Church then said invocation, which was followed by a speech by Miss Tsao Ming-zoh on the vocations for women. Miss Wong Li-sung rendered a piano solo, which was enthusiastically received.

"The Present Condition of Slave Girls in China" was the subject of an interesting discussion by Miss Wu Zoh-hsen, one of the most popular members of the graduating class. Here the chorus again interpersed the program with a song entitled "Morning Invitation." Then Dr. P. W. Kuo spoke on the "Problems in Education for Women." Miss Sung Sih-tsung delighted the audience with a second piano solo and then Bishop Birney gave some fatherly advice to the young graduates. The class song was sung and the presentation of the diplomas to the graduates as well as to 20 girls of the grammar school and four of the music department concluded the program.

ADMIRAL DENIES REPORT OF HIS ARMED INVASION

Admiralty Chief Wires Local Bodies To Say He Is Not Sending Troops Here

An official denial of the report that 2,000 troops were being shipped to Shanghai by Vice-admiral Tu Shih-kwei, commander-in-chief of the Chinese Navy, was received yesterday by the local Kiangsu Educational Association, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and the press. The denial which took the form of a circular telegram reads as follows:

"Recently, the Shanghai newspapers published a report that I had approached Marshal Wu Pei-fu for a detachment of three thousand troops to be organised as a marine corps and to be brought to and stationed in Shanghai. As a result of this information, the community at Shanghai has been terrorised and all sorts of rumors have been spread.

"Accordingly, I sent a telegram to General Ho Feng-lin repudiating the sensational reports and the General has, no doubt, explained clearly the alleged statements to the public.

"Now, I learn that the rumor is still rampant in Shanghai and in consequence of this, martial law has been declared unofficially by the authorities and this will, no doubt, magnify the cause for further apprehension with a subsequent intensification of the alleged statements, liable to bring the situation to a state of entanglement.

"I am of opinion personally that the general public will agree with me by my denying absolutely these unfounded reports and any sensible person will readily understand that the mobilisation of several thousand soldiers cannot be accomplished by flight under cover or by the use of any clandestine methods of transportation without being observed by human eyes. The rumor, as referred to, will certainly be dispelled by its own absurdity.

"It has been with reluctance that I try to deny this foundationless report but, bearing in mind the gravity of the consequences that would entail menace to public peace and safety, I have to offer a sincere explanation of the situation to all concerned.

"Besides, wiring to General Ho to have the said alleged statements suppressed and to bring the rumor mongers to justice, I now send this telegram to you, hoping you will make my explanations known to the public so as to dispel the doubts and fears of the general public."

FIERCE BATTLE FOR FOUR COURTS RAGES IN DUBLIN

Armored Cars, Trench Mortars, Machine Guns Used

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—A fierce battle for the possession of the Four Courts has been raging in Dublin since dawn. The attack began in drizzling rain. Armored-cars, trench-mortars and machine-guns are in action. Telegraphs and telephones are under military control. Communications with England are difficult.

There was great military activity in Dublin early this morning, where there was every indication that an attack on the Four Courts, at present occupied by General Rory O'Connor and irregular I. R. A.s, was imminent.

The Provisional Government has sent a short time ultimatum demanding the evacuation of the Four Courts by the O'Connorites. Regular I. R. A.s stopped all traffic during the night and systematically searched for arms.

Two large parties of Free State troops with armored-cars and ambulances took up positions to the rear of the Four Courts. The O'Connorites, meanwhile, prepared for a siege and dug two trenches outside, elaborately sandbagged and barbed-wired the building and filled the window-frames with great piles of law books. Machine-guns were posted on the roofs.

London, June 27.—The rebel headquarters in the Four Courts of Dublin announce that their director of the boycott in Belfast, Commandant Henderson, has been arrested by the Provisional Government authorities and taken to Mountjoy Prison in spite of the undertaking that he would be treated as an officer and not as a criminal.

The arrest was made after regular I. R. A. units with two armored cars had frustrated a raid organised by Commandant Henderson on a Belfast firm's garage in Dublin.

Major-General O'Connell, Chief of Staff of the Free State forces has been kidnapped in Dublin, it is believed as a reprisal for the arrest of Commandant Henderson.

London, June 27.—In the course of the debate in the House of Commons yesterday, the Prime Minister, Mr. Lloyd George, submitted that the Irish negotiations were justified.

Whatever befell, he would be unwilling to accept the theory that the Treaty was a failure. Disorder and dislocation were inevitable in the transition period. Nevertheless, he was disappointed

The manner in which the Provisional Government were gripping the problems of protection of life and property was inadequate. It was essential that organised defiance should be ended quickly.

The Irish Parliament now had the authority of the people and by that test, the Treaty must stand or fall.

He was not asking the House to sanction a policy of indefinite acquiescence towards defiance of the

MIXED COURT DEFINES ITS POSITION ON REGISTRATION

Important Decision Is Published In Today's Municipal Gazette

TELLS PURPOSES

Emphasizes Summons Of Tribunal May Not Be Lightly Regarded

What the attitude of the Mixed Court is to be toward registration of Chinese with foreign Consulates is set forth definitely in the published decision of British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Kwan which appears in the current issue of the Municipal Gazette.

It is emphasised that the summons of the Mixed Court, a Chinese tribunal, may not lightly be ignored. The text of the decision is as follows:

"The principle we wish to establish is that any person against whom proceedings are being brought in this Court cannot merely ignore its summons, on the ground that he is registered in a foreign Consulate but must appear and plead to the jurisdiction.

"When he has appeared and pleaded, the Court will then decide whether he is subject to the jurisdiction of this Court or not, and will for this purpose pay due regard not only to the Chinese Law and the Treaties between China and foreign nations, but also to the particular circumstances of each case.

"This Court, as a Chinese Court, cannot admit that the mere fact of birth in a foreign country is sufficient to turn the child of Chinese parents into a foreigner, nor, with every respect to the Consulates concerned, will we accept the certificates of foreign registration as conclusive against the jurisdiction of the Mixed Court.

"In future when foreign nationality is claimed by defendants of Chinese origin, we propose to ascertain not only where defendant was born but where he is domiciled, whether he owns land in the interior (which a foreigner may not do), whether in trading he has held himself out as a Chinese or a foreigner, and generally whether he has asserted his foreign nationality and denounced his Chinese nationality, or has on the contrary merely kept his foreign nationality concealed like a trump card to be played only in an emergency. And taking all these facts into consideration we will then decide whether to take jurisdiction or not."

Referring directly to the case from which the Court's ruling originated the Court's decision continues:

"In the present action the defendant did not appear when summoned and judgment was given by default. We are now shown a letter from the Consul-General for Portugal who states that defendant is registered as a Portuguese citizen, having been born in Macao in 1878.

"While assuring Mr. Casanova of our high regard, and while disclaiming any intention of showing him any disrespect, we say that we cannot regard this as conclusive against the Mixed Court's jurisdiction. Fearing, however, that the non-appearance of the defendant is due to a misapprehension of the Court's attitude we are willing to re-open the case if he appears within 3 days and either submits to or pleads to the jurisdiction."

Canton, June 27.—When the troops, belonging to General Chen Chiun-ming, attempted to disarm the People's Army, recently recruited by Dr. Sun Yat-sen in the south along the Canton-Hankow Railway, skirmishes broke out between the two with the consequence that more than 100 soldiers of the troops under General Chen were killed and wounded, and have been sent back to Canton.

It is now reported that the troops under the command of General Hsu Chung-chih came into collision with General Chen's troops. According to another report, a portion of General Hsu's troops has already arrived at Nanhsiung with a view to urging General Wang Ta-wei to hold General Chen's troops in check in the district of Shaokwan.

The main force of the troops under General Hsu Chung-chih appears to threaten an advance towards the district of Huahsien by way of Chihsing and Wengyuan.

Bandits Thrive As Generals Quarrel

(China Press Correspondence)

Chengtu, June 9.—General Liu Yui-kiu still hangs on in Chengtu as the virtual chief of the province. General Liu Hsiang was so in name until lately, but General Yang at Chungking gradually drew all the power into his own hands and Liu Hsiang was forced to resign.

At that time it was forecasted that Liu Yui-kiu would soon follow, and it seemed all the more likely when General Teng Si-han came from Paoning with a large part of his division to try conclusions with Liu Yui-kiu but found him too well intrenched. Both generals are now living in the city in apparent accord.

One outcome of the military jealousy has been a recrudescence of robbery in the Southwest. With all the military drawn near to Chengtu the robbers immediately began operations. One large silk robbery took place 75 li away on the South road, and a Swede was robbed of $700 and all his goods about 200 li away.

General Liu Tseng-hou, the former Tuchun, is back in Kuangyuen, a city near the Shensi border. He was in Ningchiang chow in Shensi for a long time but came South into his native province a short time ago. He is said to be waiting there in hopes that a change in conditions in Peking will allow him to return to Chengtu.

In the plain we have been having a long spell of dry weather. A fast has been proclaimed and the "Water Dragon Procession" was held today while the people prayed their gods for rain. The dragon was carried by six youths who were doused with dashes of water by the people as they marched through the streets. The fire department also turned out and besought the rain to come through the instrument of their water spirits.

Open Verdict Delivered In Jones' Inquest

An open verdict was returned in the British Police Court before Magistrate G. W. King yesterday afternoon in the inquest into the death of Mr. R. V. Jones, who succumbed at the General Hospital as a result of injuries received in a bar room brawl on Astor Road. The jury held that the deceased had met his death through injuries inflicted by person or persons unknown.

Mr. King, in delivering the verdict, said that it was mischievous to blame Americans for the deed without any hard and fast evidence. It was generally believed that the death of the deceased was caused by American sailors. He wanted to know how the belief gained currency. Detective Inspector Reeves said that an American citizen who had just left Shanghai volunteered the information that Jones had been in the company of American sailors at the time of the row.

HOW TO "GROW" A NEW COMPLEXION

These are the days of "hustling." In a week we see and do more than our grandmothers did in a year. We are gradually turning nature to be our servant; we use her great forces against herself. We have conquered sea and sky, now our doctors are fighting not only disease, but old age. There is talk of rejuvenating human beings by the injection of animal glands, but as yet, only the few can avail themselves of the treatment.

There is, however, one secret of perpetual youth that is in the reach of everyone. Scientists now realise that the only way of keeping the skin young and fresh is to examine Nature's methods and to find some way of imitating her.

SCIENTIFIC BEAUTY.

In order to explain the new method of keeping the complexion perpetually youthful, one must understand something of the nature of the skin. A baby's skin is always clear and smooth because the outer layer is always invisibly peeling off, and new layers are forming just as fast underneath, so that the exposed skin is always fresh, unwrinkled and "new."

For the first few years of our lives, this peeling is a purely natural process, but as we grow older, we gradually lose the power of throwing off our old soiled outer skins, so that our complexions become lined and yellow, and the new skin has no chance to show itself.

A few years ago, a scientific chemist realised that a little-known substance called mercolised wax, was exactly what was needed to "keep nature up to the mark." It appears that this substance, which is now universally obtainable, gently and painlessly assists nature in throwing off the soiled outer cuticle. The skin is thus perpetually renewed, and a clear youthful complexion can be preserved to any age. (Advt.)

ture referring to him were also discovered in the houses.

"A chop and other evidence found also showed that the addresses had served as temporary headquarters for the Pootung Strike Support Society, and stubs of receipts and accounts kept there disclosed that some $600 had been collected in that connection.

"These different societies have various objects, but all seem to be united in the common aim of making war on capitalism."

If you had a building worth a hundred thousand dollars, and if it were bringing you an income of six thousand dollars a year net, how much fire insurance would you carry on it? You wouldn't be satisfied with ten thousand dollars, would you? You would take a hundred thousand dollars if you could get it but you probably couldn't get over eighty thousand dollars. THOMSON CASE TO BE HEARD FURTHER TODAY

American Official Testifies Against Captain On Forgery Charge

Further testimony will be taken today before Magistrate King in the British Police Court in the case of James Thomson who is charged with forging a master mariner's certificate and uttering the same as genuine. Thomson is at liberty on $1,500 bail.

At yesterday's hearing of the case, Mr. J. T. Wright, American vice-consul in charge of the shipping office, testified that Thomson had come to him in the early part of December and presented a document purporting to be a master mariner's certificate and asked for employment.

The defendant also presented a naturalisation paper and a document declaring his intention to become a citizen of the United States. From the endorsement at the bottom of the master mariner's licence it looked peculiar as it was a "sail" licence and was endorsed "steam." He had never seen a licence endorsed in that way. He asked the defendant to come after a couple of days.

After taking the matter up with United States Consul-General, witness was instructed to place it in the hands of the District Attorney. When Thomson came round on December 10 he made him sign an application for employment. The three papers that the defendant produced were to obtain employment on the Yangtsze.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonald, witness said that when the defendant came to see him he assumed that it was for registration for the purpose of employment.

"Are you sure that licences in the form put in are not issued, with sailing ship on top and then endorsed at the bottom for steam?—I am quite certain they are not.

Is it not possible that this type of form may have been issued?—I do not think it is possible. No sail ticket is endorsed for steam.

Captain T. C. Skegilin testified that he had been a ship master since 1915. He had seen several certificates issued by the U. S. Department of Commerce. The form is always filled in by a clerk and signed by the Inspector of Boilers and the Inspector of Hulls. This was absolutely essential on all licences. A master's license would be marked F-I, which would mean that the holder had received his first mariner's certificate. As far as he knew, no certificate of the type that the defendant had was ever issued by the Department of Commerce.

Mr. Husar: Have you ever seen a master's certificate with any endorsement like that?—no, not to my knowledge.

The witness further stated that he had met the defendant last year in July in Hongkong when in conversation the defendant had told him he had certificate for sail and steam ships. Witness told the defendant that it was impossible for a British subject to get an American certificate. Defendant replied that it was easy to obtain them in America. He said almost anybody could get one. Witness replied that only red-ink-ed certificates could be obtained. These certificates allowed foreigners to take charge of American ships during the war, and they were issued for the duration of the War.

Secretary W. E. Kirby of the China Officers Guild testified that Thomson came to his office on November 4 and produced an American masters license. Witness said, he questioned it because it was in Thomson's hand writing.

Advertisements Of Lawyers Stir Court

Judicial notice is being taken by the Magistrates and Assessors of the Mixed Courts of certain advertisements which in the words of today's Municipal Gazette, "are being posted to numerous people stating that a certain firm of lawyers is increasing the personnel of the firm and soliciting further business."

"The same firm," the announcement continues, "is responsible for the advertisement of a legal office, which stated they had retained American, British, French, Chinese and Japanese lawyers for the benefit of their clients."

The announcement says these advertisements have been referred to the Assessor of the nationality of the advertising firm for whatever action is deemed needful.

New Figure In Murder Mystery

Mrs. Margaret Black. 1922.

MRS. Margaret Black, beautiful screen actress and daughter of Louis Bruenn, former official of the Metropolitan Life, has appeared in the Ward murder mystery in New York. The question has been asked if she knew anything about the killing of Clarence Peters, a former U. S. sailor, by Walter S. Ward. Her husband, from whom she is separated, admits he heard reports of attentions to her by a screen producer and a "wealthier man."

Lord Kitchener No Woman-Hater

"Not In The Least Shy With Them," Says General Woodyatt

London—For years to come the late Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, who went down on the cruiser Hampshire off the Scottish coast when the cruiser struck a German mine, will be the subject of controversy as probably few of the great figures of the World War will be.

Enough has already been brought about him to show that he was not the morose, tongue-tied martinet that he was at one time popularly supposed to be. Now it is said that he was not the inveterate woman hater he was generally credited with being. Major Gen. Nigel Woodyatt, C. B., in his book "Under Ten Viceroys," attempts to show that Kitchener the bachelor was far from being shy in the presence of the fair sex.

"It is most strange," he says, "how this rumor emanated, for we found him a very charming guest, and most easy to please. Still, there is no doubt it was currently believed to be true. Indeed, we are told it was even mentioned to Queen Victoria, who remarked, 'He was always very nice to me.'

NOT IN THE LEAST SHY

"Kitchener was not in the least shy with ladies, nor did he dislike them. Some of them undoubtedly bored him, while others, overstepping the limits, were very promptly sat on. It was not at all an uncommon thing to see him in ladies' company enjoying himself immensely."

The author tells a story of a well-known woman, a friend of Kitchener's, twitting him about the dislike of women, but which Kitchener protested as untrue.

"Anyhow, you must confess you always keep them at a distance," said Kitchener's fair friend.

To which the soldier replied: "Perhaps, but you know the old proverb, 'Familiarity breeds contempt.'"

"Well, Lord Kitchener," she added, "it takes a certain amount of familiarity to breed anything."

Another of Gen. Woodyatt's stories of Kitchener and the fair sex had its setting in India. "At the 1903 Durbar at Delhi," he adds, "my wife and I were sitting close behind him at the investiture ceremony. During the long interval, while Lord Curzon changed his robes from one order to another, Kitchener, talking to Lady Powis, told her a diamond ornament in her hair was coming out. 'Push it in for me, please,' said Lady Powis.

"Kitchener was taken aback, but certainly didn't look shy. Now, the thing wanted handling, but, after some hesitation he simply made a sudden dart at it with his finger and missed it altogether. Then they both roared with laughter and K. refusing to have anything more to do with it, Lady Powis had to arrange it herself."

UNPLEASANT AT TIMES

"Lady Gaselee did not seem to find Kitchener such a delightful guest during his three days' visit to Na'ni Tal, as we had done at Almora. She wrote to my wife asking what on earth we had done to K., as he arrived in such a bad temper. On arrival he had only grunted when she told him there was a big dinner in his honor that night, a garden party the next day and a picnic the day after.

"When she asked him if he would like to walk out and look at the lake, he told her he could see it from his bedroom window. Finally, at the dinner and garden party, he would not speak to a soul. The good lady had not employed her usual tact. K hates entertainments, and she had given him a surfeit."

It was easy to see the sign of danger in Kitchener's countenance, says Gen. Woodyatt, and at such times it was advisable to keep clear of him. The danger singal took the form of veins swelling on the cheek bones, which were noticeable at once.

HIS TRAGIC FATE

Until the war ended, in fact for many months after the armistice, there were thousands of his countrymen who believed that Lord Kitchener had been picked up by a German submarine after the mining of the cruiser Hampshire and that he had been taken prisoner to Germany, the British Government being afraid to tell the truth about it.

His sister was a believer in this myth for a long time. But time finally scuppered this ridiculous assumption of the Field Marshal's fate.

It has not yet, however, entirely laid low the belief that the Feld Marshal's tragic fate was really due to a woman, a German spy. The Government has stated this latter story to be absolutely groundless, but there was enough of mystery about the mining of the cruiser when she was setting out in the face of a gale for Russia to encourage the belief among many thousands of Kitchener's countrymen that the German spy had been the means of his destruction.

The story in question is that on the night before Kitchener embarked a British officer who knew of the change of plans whereby the Field Marshal was to sail from Scotland, innocently told the German spy, with whom he was reported to be infatuated, of the change of route.

It is said a certain German woman who was deported by the British Government because they considered her undesirable, bragged, when she reached Berlin, that she had been the means of informing the German Government of Kitchener's route, and that immediately mines were strewn in the path the Hampshire was to take. This story has since been the basis of a film shown in England.

TO PREVENT RHEUMATISM

When the general health is broken down, if conditions are favorable for the disease, rheumatism is very liable to develop. Without these conditions of low vitality and weakened resistance nature will protect the body against disease.

In the development of rheumatism a marked feature is the thinning of the blood caused by the breaking down of the blood cells.

The best treatment for rheumatism is rest and what doctors call a "supporting treatment," that is, to restore and retain a high level of general health. Then nature corrects the disease.

With these facts in view it is easily seen how Dr. Williams' Pink Pills prevent and relieve rheumatism. They tone up general health. Taken after rheumatism has developed they begin at once to rebuild the blood, to restore its broken-down cells, and that is to directly combat the disease. External applications are never effective in the treatment of rheumatism because the disease is in the blood and must be fought there.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale people are sold by all druggists, or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai at $1.50 per bottle. $8-for 6 bottles, post free

Finds Shakespeare Very Much Alive

Never More So In The Last 300 Years Than Today, Asserts Brander Matthews

New York, May 21.—Answering the question "Is Shakespeare dead?" Brander Matthews, Professor of Dramatic Literature at Columbia University and Chancellor of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, said yesterday that "so far from being dead," Shakespeare for the last 300 years has never been so alive as he is today. Reviewing the work of modern Shakespearean scholarship, in connection with the recent celebration in England, and considering particularly the part played by American universities in this work, Dr. Matthews pointed out that the higher institutions of learning here had a not inglorious record.

"Modern Shakespearean scholarship," said Dr. Matthews, "has done a vast and significant work in placing Shakespeare's dramas in the environment which called them forth. It has taught us to know their author, whoever he was, as a man who by painful experiment in the theater learned his job of playwriting. It has relocated his theater and the audience for which he wrote. It has made clear the kind of thing that the audience in that theater expected to get, and it has shown how Shakespeare gave them what they expected, and something more, to please himself.

"It has followed Shakespeare in his reading, not the reading of a scholar but of a man of letters in search of material. It has studied the subtle differences between the language of Elizabeth's day and our own and shown something of the masterly daring of Shakespeare as a wielder of that language. It has followed the course of stage tradition through the centuries to our own day. In short, it has been busied, and successfully busied, with the task of tearing down the barriers that keep the modern reader from full possession of that priceless inheritance of his which is locked up in the plays.

"In all this critical activity no university, British or American, has had a larger share than Columbia," continued Matthews. "In the Tudor Shakespeare in 40 volumes, edited by Professor Ashley H. Thorndike and President Neilson of Smith, four Columbia professors, Cunliffe, Lawrence, Gildersleeve and Ayres, each prepared a volume, the general editors collaborating in a final volume of sound merit. 'The Facts About Shakespeare.' In 1916, in commemoration of the three hundredth anniversary of Shakespeare's death, twenty members of the Department of English and Comparative Literature joined forces in a volume of 'Shakespearian Studies.'"

After referring to many other words, Dr. Matthews says:

"The purpose and the result of this effort of modern scholarship, in which the work of Columbia scholars forms no small part, has been to recover Shakespeare in his habit as he lived, to give to the modern reader the very form and presence of his time. So far from being dead, Shakespare has not for the last three hundred years been so much alive as he is today."

ELMONT BRINGS ASSAULT CHARGE AGAINST WOMAN

Adjournment Is Granted When Hearing Is Held In British Court

An adjournment of one week was ordered by Magistrate G. W. King in the British Police Court yesterday in the case brought by Mr. J. Elmont of 18 Quinsan Gardens against Mrs. W. J. Priest, alleging assault.

Mr. Elmont, in testifying against Mrs. Priest, declared that his wife was talking to Mrs. Priest in Quinsan Gardens last Sunday and he told her "not to talk to that woman." Mrs. Priest, he declared, insisted that she was insulted and asked a Chinese policeman to arrest him. Then she caught him by the arm, he said, and snatched a card from his hand. Previously, he said, he had an argument with Mrs. Priest and her husband about a bill and he had told his wife not to speak to Mrs. Priest.

Cross-examined by K. E. Newman, plaintiff denied that he used profane language and asserted that it was not true that several complaints had been made against him in the United States Consulate. Witness denied knowledge of a complaint filed against him in the American Court by Mrs. Priest.

Mrs. Priest testified that while she was seated in the Garden with Mrs. Elmont, complainant shouted to his wife "I told you several times not to talk to that dirty, bad woman," whereupon Mrs. Elmont walked away and witness asked complainant to address her as a lady. She called a Chinese policeman. Mrs. Priest denied that she assaulted Mr. Elmont.

The Magistrate: Could you suggest why Elmont used such bad language to you?—We were bad friends.

You were in this Court previously, and one witness in that case generally described you as a "typhoon"?—It may be so.

That shows you have a temper?—I know when to use it.

Defendant emphatically denied touching complainant.

London, June 28.—The Irish Provisional Government have issued a statement declaring that outrages must cease immediately and for ever. The Government are determined that the country shall no longer be held up from the pursuit of normal life and the re establishment of free institutions and call on the citizens actively to co-operate in the measures being taken to ensure public safety and secure Ireland for the Irish people.

London, June 27.—Mr. Lloyd George disclosed in the House of Commons yesterday evening the Government's views with regard to the Four Courts rebels and communicated to the Provisional Government that this would be the first business of the Irish Parliament on its opening on Saturday.

Mr. Churchill's skilful speech rallied the wavering Government supporters and the subsequent die-hard attack fell flat but Liberal commentators today are disquieted lest, while accomplishing its object of easing the difficult Parliamentary situation, the speech will have a bad effect in South Ireland. The Conservative papers declare that the Government has "got the wind up."

Mr. Bonar Law's intervention in the debate is much discussed. While refusing to withdraw this support from the Government, he emphasised the anxiety of the situation and declared that, if the Government did not see the thing through, he would be against it.

This hint that Mr. Bonar Law might be compelled to head the opposition to the Government is regarded as introducing a new factor into the situation.

Irving Berlin Hears Oldest Known Music

"I'm Only Too Delighted To Introduce The King Of Jazz To The King Of Jerusalem," Says Leo Tecktonius

Paris, May 21.—Through Leo Tecktonius, an American pianist, Irving Berlin, composer of the newest form of music, has made the acquaintance here in Paris of the oldest music known to man—the Song of Songs—libretto and score by King Solomon, written in Jerusalem some three thousand years ago. Mr. Berlin was also introduced ot a Chinese opera with words by Confucius and music by Chin Sang which likewise is considerably older than even the earliest ragtime.

The two works were arranged and orchestrated and the recitative translated into French by Raoul Gunsbourg, director of the Monte Carlo Opera, where they were successfully staged for the first and only time (thus far) a few weeks ago. Mr. Berlin, who, despite his professional adherence to jazz, confesses to keen interest in the upper levels of the musical art, met M. Gunsbourg in Paris recently and asked to hear both the Song of Songs and "The Midnight Sun," which is the title of the Chinese work.

As the music had not been published, M. Gunsbourg had his own copies sent up especially from Monte Carlo and Mr. Tecktonius volunteered to interpret the scores. "I'm only too delighted," he said, "to introduce the King of Jazz to the King of Jerusalem."

The music of the Song of Songs is reminiscent both of Debussy and Rimsky-Korsakoff. Indeed, the latter's "Chant Hindou" (syncopated under the title of "Song of India") is based on the leitmotiv of King Solomon's canticle.

Mr. Berlin was particularly interested in the history of M. Gunsbourg's discovery of the Song of Songs score. The Monte Carlo impresseio learned that there was in the synagogue at Kovno a very ancient Old Testament in Hebrew which contained hieroglyphics never deciphered but supposed to represent the notes of Solomon's music. In the same synagogue M. Gunsbourg found a venerable rabbi who could sing some of the notes of the Song of Songs—harmonies handed down orally through the centuries from cantor to cantor. By combining the rabbi's chant with close study of the hieroglyphics the operatic director found the key to the latter and was able to decipher the score composed some forty centuries ago by the Jewish King.

A somewhat similar process was followed in the case of Chin Sang's music in "The Midnight Sun," which, however, was far simpler, since Chinese notes are known to musical science.

Both works are short operas, the song of songs lasting about forty minutes and "The Midnight Sun" half an hour. In each the whole action is based on a love duet, in one case between King Solomon and the Sulamite maiden whom he brings to his palace, in the other between a Chinese damsel and her Manchu lover, with whom, that their passion might remain ever fresh, she faces the blinding rays of Buddha's midnight sun.

Both Mr. Berlin and Mr. Tecktonius were delighted with the two productions, which French critics have acclaimed as exquisite.

"I'm afraid, however, that Broadway audiences, in the Music Box at least, wouldn't appreciate King Solomon's melodies unless there were a few dozen of his most beautiful wives in the chorus," the composer of "Say It With Music" observed gravely.

Mixed Court Warns Detective Agencies

Expressions have been voiced in the Mixed Court carrying a warning to employes and operators of private detective agencies.

"The Court," says today's Municipal Gazette, "made some very strong comments about the practice of so-called private detectives entering private houses and stated that such detectives and the firms employing them laid themselves open to serious consequences."

Continuing the Court said that . . . "In every case where there was the slightest suspicion against householders, the assistance of the Municipal Police should be applied for, as the private detectives could do nothing on their own."

CALIFORNIA TO MEET S.C.C. NET MEN TOMORROW

Program Partly Arranged For Crack Visiting Tennis Stars

BIG MATCHES ON FOURTH

Best Of Local Players To Compete Against The U. Of C. Men

Local opponents to play against the all Star Collegiate California tennis players here this week and next were announced yesterday by Mr. M. B. Brown, secretary of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis association. Selections for the Cricket Club doubles tomorrow, the singles against all-Shanghai Saturday and the big schedule for the Fourth of July are available.

The selections include some of Shnaghai's best net men against the visitors. For tomorrow's match against the Cricket Club, which will be played on the S. C. C. courts commencing at 5 p.m., Parbury and Barrett, and Sheldon and Gulick will play against Wallace Bates and Brick Conrad, and Aleck Wilson and Carrol Jensen of the visitors.

For Saturday All-Shanghai will be represented at the French Club courts by Parbury and Elmore against Wilson and Bates, while in the singles Tanaka will oppose Conrad and Sheldon will meet Jensen.

The matches on the Fourth will see Carnavarro, one of last year's doubles champions and Conrad, opposing Jensen and Conrad of the California team. Parbury will probably play Bates in the first singles set, with Roberts following against the youngster Wilson.

The matches should furnish the best tennis seen in Shanghai for many years. The playing abilities and the records of the local players are well known. Bates, the 45th ranking player in the American National listing, is the fourth best in the States outside of the first Big Ten. Conrad has defeated Ward Dawson once and followed up with beating the California State Intercollegiate champion twice. Wilson has defeated Willis Davis, America's fifth best man, and Wilson and Bates have defeated Kumagae and Nomurao, Japan's best doubles.

Friday, June 30.—California vs. Cricket Club at S. C. C.

Saturday, July 1.—California vs. All Shanghai at Cercle Sportif Francais.

Sunday, July 2.—Open date.

Monday, July 3.—California vs. Country Club, at Country Club.

Tuesday, July 4.—California vs. Recs, at S. R. C.

Wednesday, July 5.—California vs. All Shanghai, probably at Country Club.

Friday, July 7.—Open date.

The California players arrived in port yesterday and were met by Secretary M. B. Brown of the Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association and Mr. Gulick, representative of the Columbia Country Club, on the Lawn Tennis Association Committee.

SAYS 'BUGS' Baer:

GINK'S SECRET OUT AT LAST

Roughtown Cup Clubs His Feet Until They Turn Square And Honest

BY "BUGS" BAER

Dear prices—

How could that big bozo Gink tell the difference between umpiring and fighting? I have been an umpire for seventy years in all the important games played in the Boy Scout League. Between umpiring and manicuring live lions, I would rather choose catching the shells fired during navy target practice.

Yours on hail,
UMP KEETS,
Wilmington, Delaware.

They made Gink umpire of the Boots League beause he was the first athlete to put a jig-saw puzzle together. One day, Gink was crying on a park bench.

A sympathetic Roughtown cop came up and saw Gink putting on the weep business. After smacking him on the fect and the skull, he asked Gink what made him slobber.

Gink told him that once, about fifty years ago, he had thrown away a glass of beer because it had a fly in it.

The cop told Gink to move over and he would cry with him. After that people came up by twos and by mobs and the bench get so popular that the speculators grabbed all the seats.

They asked Gink where the place was that the sad spot took place, but Gink told them that was fifty years ago and there wasn't any use. But they thought that the fly might still be alive, but Gink said it was dead at the time. He didn't mind live flies in his beer, it seemed.

There are famous places like the Blarney Stone, the Wishing Well, the Praying Wall and the Leaning Tower, but the Weeping Bench of Roughtown is probably the most important. The Roughtown Board of Interference passed a congratulatory bill condoning with Gink in his memorial Tanglefoot paper.

After that they all went out to the opening game of the Roughtown baseball season.

There has been some complaint from Chicago that the Roughtown season was nothing but opening games.

The trouble was that no game was ever finished and had to be postponed until the next day. If it wasn't rain, it was battle. Therefore, a battle check would enable a fan to see the entire season, which was the same game postponed from day to day. But never finished.

We trust that this explains everything very muddily. Baseball was Roughtown's big substitute for capital punishment.

8-BALL OVER TO APPLY IN GAMES IN AUSTRALIA

Alterations and additions to cricket rules were made at a special general meeting of the M.C.C. held recently at Lord's. The question of an eight-ball over in place of the six-ball over was approved so far as matches in Australia are concerned. The alteration was carried after prolonged discussion and some opposition.

Another important alteration was in respect to the rolling of the pitch at the close of the day's play. The old rule was to the effect that "the ground shall not be rolled, watered, covered, mown, or beaten during the match except before the commencement of each innings and of each day's play." The new rule is that "in the event of rain falling on any day after the commencement of a match, prior to or during the currency of the day's play, the groundsman shall cause the wicket to be swept and rolled for not more than ten minutes after the close of that day's play, at any time before the commencement of the next day's play, whenever he is of opinion that such rolling will improve the wicket." The groundsman will use the roller only after consultation with the two captains.

An alteration was made in the follow-on rule, which in future will permit the side which bats first and lead by 200, the option of compelling their opponents to follow on. The old rule was 150 runs.

Hays Boat Wins Club Senior Fours After One Mile Tussle

BIG IMPROVEMENT SHOWN

Meet Held At Neap Tide Was One Of Best Held In Tientsin

The Tientsin Rowing Club held its Spring scratch regatta Sunday afternoon in brilliant weather conditions. The water and temperature, lowered by the previous day's thunderstorm, were ideal. A neap flood tide was running and the slight wind blew with the tide, obviating choppiness.

On the whole the crews improved vastly upon training form. Many of the faults were almost entirely eliminated. The last race provided the most keenly fought finish, there being but the slightest streak of water between the boats as they crossed the line. Contrary to expectations, Hay's boat won, after a ding-dong tussle down the last quarter mile.

Exchange Fluctuations
Asia Banking Corporation

June 28, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ¼d. in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 70¾ cents, and th London-New York cross rate to 441⅝.

The only changes in the official quotations here today were a rise in the Gold Dollar rate to 78¼, a drop in the Yen rate to 61¾, and in the Rupee rate to 269¾.

Notwithstanding the advance in London silver yesterday, our market here, particularly for Sterling, was considerably easier than yesterday.

At the opening a small business was done at 3-7⅛ for Sterling T. T. but later on in the morning the best sellers were offering between 3-6⅞ and 3-6 15-16 only for July-August deliveries.

Gold Dollars were done at 79 for the same deliveries, but there were buyers rather than sellers at this rate.

The market was very quiet today, with few bills offering.

India and China bought silver in London yesterday, and the market there is reported as steady.

New York report their market as easier, with sellers at the official quotation.

Hongkong Shares

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor of Hongkong write as follows in their weekly share report dated Hongkong, June 23:

There has been a fair demand during the week for industrial and investment stocks, otherwise the market has been on the quiet side. Forward business continues very restricted.

The Shanghai market continues lifeless with little if any business doing.

Rubber remains stagnant.

The following are the principal alterations since last week:

Hongkong Banks:—Have been in good demand and a fair number of shares have changed hands at prices ranging between $855 and $860.

Unions:—Are quiet at $209.

Hongkong Lands:—Have come to business at $215.

Humphreys:—Are very firm and after being done at $12 close with buyers at $11.50.

Cantons:—Have firmed up to a buying rate of $440.

Hongkong Fires:—Are wanted at $381.

Douglases:—Are quiet at $50.

Hongkong Hotels:—Are very firm with few if any sellers.

Hongkong Wharfs:—Have firmed up during the week and close with buyers at $123½ cash and $125 July.

Hongkong Docks:—Have been the medium of a small business at $150.

Hongkong Trams:—Had a further rise and close with buyers at $14.10.

China Providents:—Have also firmed up during the week and are wanted at $11.30.

Indos Deferred:—Are more or less neglected with sellers at $267½.

Singapore Rubber Auction

Singapore, June 14, 1922

During the past week the London market has fluctuated slightly between 7¼d. and 7½d. This morning, however, spot in London was reported down again to 7⅜d. New York is also slightly down at 14½ cents. In the local market business has been as difficult as ever, owing to sellers' ideas of prices being well over the current prices in the consuming markets.

We have to report a rather dull auction this week, where prices in general show no change on the week.

There was an easy tone prevailing and buyers' interest was moderate only.

575 tons were catalogued for sale, of which 466 tons were offered and only 311 tons changed hands.

No buyers were interested in Awarded Singapore Standard Sheet above 24½ cents, for which reason sellers withdrew their lots, and no sales took place of this grade.

Sheet equal to Standard sold at 24½ cents. This grade and good parcels of F.A.Q. Sheets met with a fair demand.

No business was done in Awarded Singapore Standard 1st Latex Crepe.

Crepe equal to Standard and Off Color Latex were not well competed for, and fetched poor prices only.

Fine Brown, Dark and Barky Crepes were unchanged.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, June 28.—Yesterday evening a well-dressed Chinese entered the Sun Company's department-store and smashed with a revolver the glass of a showcase, from which he abstracted jewellery, valued at $8,000.

He then bolted but was pursued by the shop-assistants, whereupon he opened fire on them with his revolver, wounding two Chinese passers-by.

The firing attracted the attention of the police, who gave chase and shot and wounded the robber, who was removed to hospital.

GERMANS NOW TREKING TO U. S. IN LARGE NUMBERS

N. Y. Congressman Sees Revival Of Teutonic Immigration

(China Press Service)

Washington, June 26.—German immigrants are arriving in the United States at the rate of 100 a day, most of them entering through New York, according to the report of the United States immigration department.

The rate of increase, according to Congressman Isaac Siegel, member of the House Committee on Immigration, indicates a revival of immigration from Germany of a large scale. A total of 16,158 Germans have been admitted already this year.

Under the immigration act which went into effect May 19, 1921, limiting the annual immigration from any country to a basis fixed on the immigration from that country for a considerable number of years, Germans may enter the United States at the rate of 68,039 a year.

More Germans are admissible each year under this law than subjects of any other nation except the United Kingdom, including Ireland, which is entitled to send a quota of 77,206 to this country. Italy's admissible quota is 42,021, while Russia's quota is 34,247.

During the year ending May 19, 1922, more immigrants have come from Italy than any other country, the total being 12,089, or practically the full quota allowable from Italy. Immigrants from Poland for the year number 26,103, which is 500 in excess of the quota, and immigrants from Russia number 22,891. Immigrants from Czecho-Slovakia number 14,083, or practically the full allowable quota.

Jugo-Slavia has also sent slightly more than its full quota, a total of 6,641. When nations have exceeded their quota in any one year, this excess is deducted from their quota of the following year. Arrivals from the United Kingdom numbered 35,935, or less than half the allowable number.

Some of the small independent and semi-independent countries caused bookkeeping difficulties to the immigration authorities, as 143 immigrants came from "other Europe." "Other Europe" includes Andorra, the miniature republic in the Pyrenees between Spain and France; Gibraltar, Liechtenstein, a principality in the Tyrol, and Malta, Memel, Monaco, San Marino, the pocket-size Republic on a mountain in Italy, and Iceland.

Hungary's quota of 5,635 was exceeded. Only 3,952 Austrians arrived against a quota of 7,444, the small immigration being due probably to the extreme poverty in that country, which made the raising of passage money difficult.

Japan And Chita May Reopen Parley

(Dalta News Agency)

Tokio, June 27.—With reference to the announcement by the Japanese Government of the withdrawal of Japanese troops from Siberia, Mr. Antonoff, Manager of the Dalta News Agency here, made in the main the following statement:

"It is not unlikely that after the completion of evacuation of Japanese troops of Siberia, the Vladivostock Government will as a matter of course fall and that the White Guards will naturally vanish out of sight.

"It is our greatest desire that friendly and peaceful intercourse as well as commercial relations between Japan and Russia will be furthered more firmly than ever. It is expected that Russo-Japanese negotiations will be reopened to discuss problems concerning commerce and others, and that the negotiations will be conducted elsewhere than Dairen.

"Though I am not in a position to declare that the Chita Government will not be controlled by the Soviet Government in the future, it is most probable that the former will endeavor to maintain the Far Eastern Republic as a federal state."

U. S. Oilmen Held By Mexican Bandits

The American representatives at Tampico and Mexico City have been instructed to urge immediate action by the Mexican authorities.

Berlin Quiet At Rathenau's Funeral

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 27.—Fifty-six arrests have been made arising from Dr. Rathenau's assassination. They include the President of the Anti-Semitic League.

Police at Hamburg today fired on Republican demonstrators who defied a prohibition to pass the Bismarck Monument, killing one and wounding six.

The funeral of Dr. Rathenau today was not marked by any untoward incident. Flags on public buildings and Embassies were at half-mast, but very few private premises or hotels displayed signs of mourning.

The coffin, draped with the Republican flag, was placed on a catafalque in the Reichstag, where President Ebert delivered a funeral oration.

Subsequently the remains were conveyed to the family vault on the outskirts of Berlin. The crowds, after loudly cheering the President, quietly dispersed.

A twenty-four hour demonstration strike of all banks and shops began at noon today. Tramway and local railway services are suspended.

Memorial Service For Rev. E. Gedye At Hankow Church

(Independence News Service)

Hankow, June 25.—A memorial service was held this morning at the Union Church, where friends of the late Rev. E. F. Gedye, of the Wesleyan Mission and one of the earliest mission workers in Hankow, paid a touching tribute to the deceased. Dr. W. A. Tatchell conducted the service, and speaking of the Rev. Gedye's life, he brought forth some admirable characteristics in his person, and expressed the general loss to his friends in the sudden death of Mr. Gedye. Mr. Tatchell voiced the general feeling of the congregation when he expressed his deep sorrow in Mr. Gedye's death, and extended his sympathy to Mrs. Gedye and her children in their sad bereavement.

Mr. Gedye died last Tuesday in the Wesleyan Mission Hospital of Hankow, where he suffered from pneumonia and dysentry. He came to Hankow in 1893 having graduated with distinction from Cambridge University. For 21 years he served the Wesleyan College in Wuchang. He was the oldest male educational worker in the missionary field in this center, and it was largely through his efforts that the foundation was laid for the Union Normal College and the Central China Christian Educational Association.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, June 2.—The trend of the cotton market this week has been reactionary. Evening-up operations before the Government crop report checked the rise, even though sentiment regarding the ultimate level of prices remained quite as bullish as ever. Some commission houses have contended that the present level of prices about discounts the crop delay and unfavorable factors which have thus far arisen, but the majority of houses continue to predict still higher prices later in the season. It is contended that the world will consume a twelve million bale crop without difficulty, at round these prices, but that such a yield can hardly be expected in view of the late start.

Farmers have undoubtedly done their best to plant a large acreage this spring, attracted by the high price and the forecasts of twenty five or possibly thirty cent cotton later on, but the elements have been steadily against them, and all reports have indicated the need for extensive replanting. This will be done in most sections where seed can be obtained, but such cotton, if it thrives, will be subject to weevil activity later in the season. A local cotton man, himself a Southerner and familiar with cotton growing, says:—"In the days before the boll weevil the crop was definitely fixed by the advent of killing frost.

"The boll weevil has much to do with determining the crop, and when it is considered how late the crop is in Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama and Texas, which are the great cotton producing states, you will know why the crop cannot be ten million bales. If the weather be rainy in June and July the greatest crop disaster of history may occur." A Georgia cotton mill man writes that a wet May spells a short crop on the idea that with a dry May, the roots of the plant go deep in search of moisture, enabling it to withstand the heat and drought of June and July. This season the roots have found abundant moisture near the surface and will be likely to shed its fruit when the hot weather comes along.

There is always the possibility that the weather in the next two or three months may be as favorable as it has been unfavorable in the past two months but there is no doubt that the weevil menace will be unusually severe this season and bulls are counting on this to stimulate the price. The best people, in the trade, however, regard a short crop as a calamity in more ways than one, for its effect indirectly in all branches of trade will be very harmful, coming at a time when industry is just beginning to emerge from its long period of dullness and depression. They would rather see a twelve million bale crop even at somewhat lower prices, on the ground that its beneficent effect would extend into many channels of trade here and abroad. Some think another short crop here would greatly stimulate cotton growth in other countries, but it would be many years before such competition would be seriously felt, if indeed it would ever be, outside of the countries like China, India and Peru which already produce a greater or less quantity of cotton each year.

In the goods end of the market there is reason to believe that the textile strike is nearly over. Advices indicate that workers are ready to return but are being held out by leaders for a while longer in hopes of securing some eleventh-hour concessions from operators. Gray goods mills are comfortably supplied with orders for the next 30 to 60 days, and colored goods markets are reported to be firmer than they have been for two months, while some lines have been withdrawn from the market.

It is believed here that one of the firms owning part of the cotton in the local stock has been selling July and buying October. The firm is already supposed to be short of July as a hedge against the spot cotton, and some think the present selling of July against October may mean an intention to tender cotton on July.

Sores from Wrist to Elbow
"Completely Healed"

Our portrait is of Mr. John Kidd, of 17, Mill Lane, Kilmarnock, Scotland, who writes:—"My right arm became covered with sores from wrist to elbow and was useless for over two years. I tried different ointments and so-called cures, but they never did me any good. Then I tried your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and the sores soon began to heal up and power began to come back to my arm, so I persevered with the Mixture, and after having four bottles am glad to say my arm is completely healed up and I have now the full use of it." In a further letter over a twelvemonth later Mr. Kidd writes: "I have had no return of my complaint; my arm is still as sound as a bell and never troubles me in the least."

BOONE "U" HOLDS 13TH GRADUATION; 14 GET DIPLOMAS

Eleven Receive B. A. Degrees, Two Finish Theology Work

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, June 25.—The Thirteenth Commencement of Boone University was held yesterday in Stokes Hall in the University compound at Wuchang. The program opened with an invocation by the Rev. T. F. Tsen, which was followed by the singing of the college motto song by the audience. Mr. Robert A. Kemp, acting President of the University, made a few fitting remarks, and then introduced the speakers of the day.

Mr. Chen Sze, President of Chung Hwa University, speaking in Chinese, had as his topics his own impressions of the excellent work done by Boone University for education in China. The ideal of Boone University was highly praised by Mr. Chen. The Rev. H. B. Rattenbury of the Wesleyan Mission of Hankow, the English speaker, took as his subject the late Rev. E. F. Gedye, of the Wesleyan Mission who died in Hankow last Tuesday. The speaker picked out certain desirable traits in the life of Mr. Gedye, and pointed them out as an ideal for young men to follow.

Acting President R. A. Kemp conferred degrees on the graduating classes. Eleven students received the B. A. degrees, while the B. D. was conferred upon two graduates in theology. Miss M. E. Wood, dean of the Boone School of Library science, then presented certificates to graduates of the library course. Mr. Francis Wei and Mr. Johnson Leo, deans of the the Chinese department and the middle school distributed certificates.

A noteworthy improvement in the work of Boone University is the reorganisation of the department of Chinese language, which is now placed under a much stricter management under the direction of Mr. Francis Wei. He has a profound belief in the importance of Chinese students laying special stress on their own language.

The More Water They Squirt On This Fire, The Worse It Gets

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, June 27.—The Peking Maru is on fire in the harbor. Her cargo of carbide in wooden drums, ammonia and sulphur is blazing fiercely.

Those who have had anything to do with carbide will appreciate the plight of the firefighters who cannot use water since every drop of it sprayed on carbide gives rise to acetylene gas that not only is inflammable but is exceedingly explosive. Ordinarily carbide is shipped in tight steel drums so that the presence of this substance in wooden containers absolutely precludes ordinary methods of firefighting.

Judging from the dispatch, about all that can be done for the ship is to let it burn, keeping well to windward of the sulphurous fumes and the possible deadly phosphine gas that is generated together with acetylene from all but specially purified carbide.

Confucius vis-a-vis The Salvation Of The Republic

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS,

Dear Sir: The above article and others contributed to your popular journal by Miss Elsie McCormick, which have been reproduced in the Straits Echo-Penang for the perusal of its readers in Malaysia, are undoubtedly interesting to the Oversea Chinese, of whom I happen to be one.

Your correspondent's view, relating to the failure of Confucius' life as a great teacher in so far as his biography is concerned and that his teachings on things governmental are not to be adopted by the Chinese in their national reconstruction, for the reason that Confucius mostly advocated principles on aristocratic line and seldom mentioned democracy, is according to my humble opinion without justification. First, to speak vaguely of the sage's works and that he wandered from one state to another without achieving anything and in the end died in grief for his failure, is ridiculous indeed, because such a thing, in the majority of cases, is characteristic with the mission of an evangelist and very often such class of people die martyrs and sacrifice their own lives for the sake of other people, and we may cite Jesus Christ as an example, but their respective good teachings still live after them, same having been carried on by their disciples.

Confucius' teachings, nay! Not his but those of the sages, who lived thousand of years before him, such as Hwangti, Yao, Shun, Wen Wang, Wu Wang, Chow Kung etc., because in the books of his analects compiled by his disciples he denied that he was a teacher, but merely a transmitter of things ancient for the reason that they were worthy of emulation and that he loved them. Dusing his life time, he was indeed famous for his wise counsels to everybody alike from the Prince down to the poor and low, as well as among the wild tribes he tried to preach to them. On one occasion when he had already gained the name of a great teacher, in order to rumble himself he remarked to a few of his pupils as follows—"Three in a party including myself, one of the other two is my teacher."

The teachings of the Chinese ancient sages, as transmitted by Confucius with additions of his own, principally aim at the moral and virtuous character of every individual and that all should strive hard to become supermen or Kun Tzes and as some European and American philosophers put it, "To be men." Things superficially and materialistically of the present day differ greatly from those of the olden days, but there is still the conscience endowed to every person born unto the world since the creation of the first human being and the blessings on the earth and its populace chiefly depends upon its (the conscience's) use in the proper and righteous course, otherwise there will be disorganisations resulting in miseries of various kinds.

Your correspondent is mistaken in her view that the Chinese have had governments under aristocratic rule and to support my contradiction I will cite the story of Shun The Great, an emperor of China who reigned between the years 2255 and 2205 B. C. Shun was a young farmer who had a cruel and un-disciplined father besides a stepmother and a selfish younger brother and yet he managed to live harmoniously with them. Yao the Glorious, who ruled the country for over 100 years with all blessings, in the latter part of his reign, invited Shun to be one of his courtiers upon the advice of his chief minister, and Shun proved himself an able administrator after three years trial in the imperial court, and Yao wedded his two daughters to him. He greatly helped Yao in ruling the country which was very propsperous and the nation was peaceful and happy. Upon Yao's death he was proclaimed Emperor amidst enthusiasm, Yao's sons being unfit to govern. This process of appointment is according to my opinion on democratic lines, because as stated above the whole nation wished it.

Shun's successor was also appointed in the same manner. This man was Yu, the man who had successfully drained the dreadful and calamitous inundation in the reign of Yao. After having associated with this benefactor of the country for a few years and tested him to be a worthy man to hold reins of government without any opposition by the people Shun promised him the Emperorship after his death and all the people from the length and breadth of the empire were quite pleased to have Yu as their Emperor, because he had already proved himself a capable man in the great task of draining the fearful deluge.

As Emperors, Shun and Yu always had as their first considerations the welfare and interests of the nation and their respective reigns are characterised by Peace, Prosperity and Happiness throughout the country and nobody murmured. On the other hand if the rulers proved themselves unfit, undisciplined and cruel, there would be popular rebellions and uprisings until the unworthy emperors were dethroned and other capable persons appointed, thus leading to the changes of dynasties, as everybody is aware.

What Confucius and the sages of the ancient time taught was that every human being should possess a moral and virtuous character, a thing which is quite essential to the personality of every Prince or Emperor as well as those of their ministers, otherwise the governments would be corrupt and the people suffer. Is this very characteristic not necessary in the person of the Chief Executive of every country and those who associate with him in the government? In my opinion I think it is most essential, so after all Confucius and the ancient sages were quite right in their teachings, and there should be no undue criticism of the benevolent and magnificent works carried out by them, but we all should revere them for their great wisdom and try to spread their teachings in whatever way we can, in conjunction with other religionists, in turning this corrupt world into a "Paradise" as mentioned in the Bible by the Lord, "I will turn the world into the Kingdom of Heaven."

The military tuchuns in China should get hold of the "Shu King" and read the contents therein so that they might change their selfish individual wishes and turn them into popular ones so that the nation will love them, in much the same way as the people of the olden times loved Shun and Yu. One thing is most important in the salvation of the Republic. It is the giving up of anti-party feeling and selfishness for position and other things. The leaders of all parties should amicably work for the unification of the country and for its development and progress and only for those important works that they would make their respective names famous for ever and be called the benefactors of the country.

Being a Chinese citizen and although living very far from the Fatherland I have watched with much anxiety and grief the pitiable evolution and its vicissitudes and earnestly appeal to all patriots among the educated class either resident inland or abroad to work hard for the salvation of our Republic from separation and ruin, and to the military governors I plead with them to cease hostilities and not to flood the country with miseries.

Thanking you, Sir, for yielding so much space in your paper, but hoping some good result will ensue from the publication of the above, my humble correspondence. Very sincerely, I remain,

CHEW CHAY SAYE.

Silver Reserves Needed

(Reprinted From Financial Daily America, New York, June 1)

Europe badly needs more metal reserves. Why not more silver, which has been allowed to decline in use since 1913? An increase of 6 cents an ounce to 71 cents in the foreign price in the last month has been ascribed to the belief that long deferred currency needs in silver must be met.

Increased demand for copper, lead and zinc in recent months is increasing production. Incidentally it adds to the output of silver long held at a low point, partly by the poverty of governments and the widespread dependence on printing-press money.

Two-thirds of America's pre-war silver production was a by-product of copper, lead, zinc and other metal mining. As these increase the silver content of their ores comes upon the markets. In Mexico, Canada and Australia, the largest foreign producers, much silver is produced by the same process of mining and smelting other metals. The poor market for the silver by-product in the last two years has tended to raise the price of the other metals produced with it.

The world has been economising in the use of silver money since 1914. The substitution of a vast amount of notes, with a constantly shrinking percentage of metal reserves, has brought many countries to the point of bankruptcy. Nearly a dozen European currencies are discounted more than 90 percent in the foreign exchange market. The National City Bank recently placed the ratio of gold to reserves in 36 principal countries at 6.7 percent, against more than 63 percent in 1913. Paper circulation was placed at 122 billions, against 7.3 billions in 1913.

Disbelief in the ability of the low-rated countries to redeem this mountain of paper from their molehills of metal has sapped their credit. They must substitute a more substantial currency before their place in the markets is restored. Their effort to maintain a gold reserve worthy of the name failed long ago. A repudiation in fact of discredited paper has followed, as represented in the 90 to 99 percent discounts. Rebuilding new currencies is the problem ahead of them.

If the money of 1914 would satisfy the needs of Europe today the problem would be easy. She possessed lately gold reserves of about 2,835 millions, or two millions more than in 1914. Unfortunately she also has contracted enormous debts payable in gold. Repudiation of these would precipitate new miseries on millions who derive incomes in part from the debtor government's payment of interest. There has been an increase of European debts of more than 200 billions in eight years. The interest charge alone amounts to nearly nine billions annually.

Taxes are levied to pay these charges as well as to maintain armies because of the menace of Bolshevism and of mutual distrust and still threatening conflicts. Taxes are added to the prices of goods and services. Prices thus range from 77 percent above 1913 in Switzerland to 46,700 percent above that level in Russia.

Until such abnormal conditions are changed for the better the volume of currency that served in 1913 will not enable Europe to transact the same volume of business today as in pre-war years. We must expect that the retired paper issues will be replaced by others as large at least as the various national reserves justify. Some of these countries, like Austria and Russia, have no gold reserve on which to base any currency. Germany's situation is little better. Their position is embarrassing to others as well as themselves. They seek loans that will enable them to produce and exchange their goods for those of their neighbors. To do this they must have some medium of exchange that commands respect at home and abroad.

The United States, with nearly half the world's gold in its possession, shows no disposition to surrender it to the weaker European countries. Good production also has fallen low. It was valued at about 260 million dollars last year, against 450 to 460 millions in five years preceding 1914. Gold reserves would be a far lower percentage but for the mobilisation of ornaments and small hoards in Europe.

The present strain on the shrinking gold output is too heavy. There is need to reinforce gold reserves with silver to at least the same extent as in pre-war days. World production then was for five years, about 224 million ounces yearly. In the last eight years silver production has fallen below that average more than 40 million ounces a year. The total deficiency is about 332 million ounces. At least that amount is required in Europe to replace the deficiency in silver that should have been coined.

How the world has lost in silver money is shown in the report of the United States Mint Director, compiled from official sources. The principal countries outside of the United States in 1914 possessed the equal of 2,256 million dollars in silver. In 1920 they had only 1,680 millions. To eke out these even Britain has debased her smaller coins, putting only half as much fine metal in them. The result of this practice is to put off further the purchase of silver for coinage in the effort of the European governments to reduce expenses. This neglect of normal coinage needs reduced the market price of silver from the high point of $1.37 in 1920 to 65 cents an ounce recently.

Large quantities of the missing silver currency was melted down in the war period at a time when the price of the metal went above the face value of the coins. Silver bullion was shipped in large quantities to the natives of Asia who were then saving from unusually large earnings and hoarding treasure after their age-old custom.

Only in dire need will this metal be resurrected by the Asiatic. There is pressing need of it in the metal reserves of Europe to rebuild currencies shattered in public confidence. Europe's statesmen and financiers have need of the world's silver mines to aid them in restoring credit.

The metal standard can be aided in Europe by reasonable use of silver reserves along with gold. Without silver the gold standard is in danger of further destruction. From Russia, the birthplace of wild experiments, we may look for another attack on gold. Having dissipated most of Russia's gold the Soviet has collected diamonds and other gems as a substitute. It has even offered these to Poland under the treaty of last year in place of Poland's just share in the former Russian gold reserve.

A reserve of gems will always be open to more doubts concerning its value than that of silver. The test of the gem is more difficult, deception easier, its theft and hiding more readily accomplished. The Russian scheme in the end will be rejected, but while it is entertained in that land of chimeras the economic restoration of Europe must suffer.

Increase of acceptable reserves, however, is aiding business revival wherever it has been achieved, notably in Italy with her silver reserve, Czecho-Slovakia and Finland. For the stronger nations it would be an easier task to lend aid to the weak in both gold and silver than in gold alone. Silver at its present low price is a bargain for the mints. A silver reserve of reasonable proportion would be far preferable to the lack of reserves existing in some of the European countries. As an asset in Europe's reserve vaults it would repay the investment a hundred fold in confidence, credit and renewed activity.

Art Of Being Human Is Biggest Asset In Movies

London, May 24.—David Wark Griffith, famous film producer has created something of a stir in London by a recent article on the "Great Art of Being Human."

In his most recent article Griffith declares that "humanity is the touchstone of success," and that slender, healthy-looking young women make the most appealing films. His article follows:

"There is one quality that dominates all others in successful film acting, and that is the art of being human in simple gestures and expression without the aid of voice or language.

"It is not always the massive backgrounds and the great crowd scenes that eat up the money and give most trouble in such big 'wordless plays.' Many thousands of feet of film and many weeks of concentrated effort are devoted to working out those little, intimate 'human touches' which count for more in the success of photoplay than all the spectacular element. This is a humbling thought for the producer when he is tempted to stage the whirlwind and dramatise the cyclone.

"The appeal of the 'human interest' episodes in a film often depends on qualities in performers that are almost beyond the control of the producer. How can a middle-aged film producer probe successfully into the secret springs of youth and love? All that he can do is to choose the right types for the part and then, by the aid of numerous rehearsals and the art of exhortation, endeavor to strike that divine human spark which is latent in every actor or actress.

"In one day I have used as many as thirty re-takes of one 'close-up' order to secure a particular shade of expression that was needed to evoke the sympathy of the spectator.

"It should never be forgotten that although the producer chooses the star, it is the public, the ultimate arbiter, that sets the seal upon his judgment. The producer has no set rules to guide him in his choice beyond the dictates of common humanity, but he knows out of his subconcious experience when an actor or actress possesses inherent dramatic ability.

"The usual method of choosing a cast is by camera test. The quantity of film that I use in these tests would be sufficient to make the ordinary six-reel photoplay. All the candidates for a role in 'Orphans of the Storm' appeared in experimental scenes of at least 100 feet in length. Some of the most distinguished applicants failed to pass the test, and even with some of those who survived the first tryout it was ultimately found that vital aspects of the character had escaped their attention.

"Youth and beauty alone are not enough for the camera. There must be personality, the warm glow of human understanding and the will power to bend personality into a successful film career.

"If I were asked to say, in this short article, what is the outstanding feature of modern film casting, I should say that it is the manner in which small, slender women capture the sympathies of the public. Perhaps this is because they appeal to the protective sense of the average spectator. All the notable young women who have appeared in my film since I began picture-making twenty years ago have been quite small women. As my eye travels over famous film heroines I see no one of commanding presence.

"It is the normal face and figure that pleases, both in hero and heroine.

"The things that count in photographic requirements are a fairly broad face, full cheekbones, a well-shaped nose, not too prominent, good teeth, a mobile mouth, lips inclined to thinness, eyes that are wells of darkness rather than of light, and a general suggestion of healthfulness. Yet one may have all these requirements without the divine fire of human sympathy.

"Humanity is the touchstone of success in film work, as it is in almost every aspect of dramatic appeal."

The Killer Of The Seas

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

If Mr. G. Dallas Hanna, of California, has guessed right, the mysterious slaughterer of the Alaska fur seals, chiefly responsible for the death of 300,000 females in the last nine years, is no human poacher but an inhabitant of the ocean, whose fear possesses all its tribes—a creature haunting the submarine gloom and inspiring even the mighty "ice whale," Balaena mysticetis, with terror.

This assassin of the seas is Orca gladiator, whose latin name has been translated into "killer whale," although the word "orca" signifies grampus, a dolphin like creature. But Frank Bullen affirms that the killer is a true whale, and in his "Cruise of the Cachalot" he has written a description of the cruel butchering, witnessed by himself, of a great "bowhead" by three killers, whose proceedings would almost shame the tortures that human savages inflict upon captured enemies. The killers have dainty appetites, and care only to devour the tongues of their unwieldy victims.

But when they are killing small fry, like seal pups, it seems that they swallow their prey whole, for Mr. Hanna tells of two killers whose stomachs contained respectively eighteen and twenty-four young seals! They flock about the Pribilor Islands (the great home of the fur seals), every Spring and Fall to pursue the chase.

"I once," says Mr. Manna, "saw a school (of killers) capture three seal pups in less than three minutes. In their eagerness to seize their prey they sometimes run aground, and of course then die."

It is true that the seals, if they could reason about the vicissitudes of life, might not consider that there was much to choose between their undisguised, two-finned enemies in the sea and their pretended, two-legged friends of the land, and if they had any moral sense they would simply fear the former but both fear and despise the latter; yet, as the government of this world now goes, the seal's point of view has no validity, and business, backing fashion and comfort, puts it up to us to be "loyal" by looking at everything in the selfish light of human interests.

So we must at least pretend to an eager approval of the proposed war on the killer whales, waged in defense of our dear friends the producers and wearers of the most elegant and costly of furs. Think of the fact that every prematurely swallowed pup would, if it had been kept alive long enough, have grown a pelisse worth thousands of dollars! Does man ever seek for a better reason to go to war?

Then, too, there is a distinct appeal to the spirit of adventure in the suggestion of sending out a "well-equipped vessel, provided with a whale gun and a man to shoot it," to cruise for killer whales, and to turn the art of murder against its great oceanic practitioner. Ordinary whaling, according to all accounts of it that we have read, is, notwithstanding its delightfully adventurous aspects, an untidy business, full of very hard, repulsive work; but here would be an almost ideal "chasse," incomparably more exciting than shooting alligators from a swamp boat, or robins from behind a hedge, and involving both a heroic sense of defending somebody, or something, against an enemy, and a gratification of the spirit of wanderlust.

If the voracious orca had possessed anything valuable to man, like whalebone or the precious spermaceti that the great cachalot carries in his head, another kind of war would long ago have been waged against him, without regard to his fondness for seal pups, but, as Mr. Hanna says, "it so happens that almost every cetacean known is commercially valuable except the killer. From the diminutive porpoise to the huge sulphurbottom all are taken but the orca and it is left entirely alone."

And at last he makes a comprehensive suggestion, like the plan of a world war: "If the killer be found the great destroyer of fur seals, which is suspected, the methods for its destruction should be devised. In lieu of submarines, it might be made the object of target practise of navy gunners. Or a bounty might be offered so as to make them commercially profitable for whalers to handle. Or, what is probably best of all such suggestions, fully equip whaling vessels to scour the seas, just as sheep men of the West keep coyote hunters constantly on duty."

You're Worth 98 Cents

BY BRICE BELDEN, M. D.

The total chemical composition of the average man may be roughly summarised as follows. Fat enough for seven bars of soap; iron enough for a medium-sized nail; sugar enough to fill a shaker; lime enough to whitewash a chicken coop; phosphorous enough to make 2,200 match tips; magnesium enough for a dose of magnesia; potassium enough to explode a toy cannon, and sulphur enough to rid a dog of fleas.

The cost of these ingredients in the open market comes to only about ninety-eight cents, at present prices.

Yet with these simple things as fundamentals nature constructs a marvelously complex being, with the most delicate adjustments of various mechanisms, and the most astonishing functions.

This wonderful organism is very sensitive to certain factors. One of the most interesting of these is the effect of sunlight, one of the sources of our energy, without which tuberculosis, anemia, rickets and many other kinds of illnesses are sure to occur.

Man has always liked to bask in the sun, realising the healthful effects of sunlight. Ancient man's worship of the sun is another proof of his appreciation of its beneficence.

It has been definitely established that children who get their proper share of sunlight are not likely to develop rickets even if their diet is quite defective, and it has also been found that children who have rickets are cured by sunlight and proper diet much faster than by proper diet alone.

Heliotherapy, or treatment by sunlight, has produced most remarkable results in tuberculosis of the bones in children. They are gradually tanned all over by playing in the sunlight while divested of all their clothing, or by careful exposure while lying in their beds if too ill to be up and about.

The Happy Twenty Club

BY W. A. McKEEVER

(Widely Known Lecturer and Author and a National Authority on Juvenile Problems)

In a commodious upper sleeping porch apartment twenty high school girls have what they call their "shop." The conspicuous furniture of the place is a slender table, two feet wide and running lengthwise through the middle of the twenty-foot room. A score of light dining room chairs border this table.

No, the first guess is wrong. This "shop" is not a dining room. As its name implies it is a working room, but it has distinctively social significance. Its occupants are attending an ordinary big city high school and running a patching and darning business as a side line. The average income of the girls from this unique workshop is $2.50 per week, or $50 for all.

What is the idea of such a club and how was it started, many girl inquirers will ask. Desire is the mother of this invention, as usual. It was the desire of a mother to have her own girl more of the time at home. So she had the room fixed up for the whole group.

It was the desire of the twenty to earn their own "side money" and not have to beg it all from the home folks. It was the desire of the common busy housekeeper to be free from the everlasting job of patching, mending and darning. So, with a few very definite details of management which give the "shop" its real character, you have the why and the how of the "Twenty Club."

Do all work well.
Charge a fair price.
Finish everything on time.
Solicit and collect nothing in person.
Make no individual deliveries.

Everything brought in for repairs or darning is quickly tagged as in a check room and the study to match handed to the carrier.

"Working hours" in this peculiar shop are 4 to 6 p.m. on school days and a extra two-hour period on Saturday if there is work left over. Every girl must give a minimum of seven hours per week to the shop employment. Happy sociability is a feature of the daily period.

Each girl may have her regular turn entertaining—reading, music, story telling—while the others work; or she may pass this appointment on to the next on the list. Nothing is ever eaten in the shop during regular working hours.

Any similar bunch of city high school girls can conduct a "Twenty Club."

Household Hints

If bones for stock cannot be used immediately, place them in a very hot oven for a few minutes.

When a large white basin is cracked, paint over the crack with a little white enamel. Then lay on a piece of white tape and give another coat of enamel. This will prevent the basin from breaking.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

What is Castoria?

CASTORIA is a harmless substitute for Caster Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Comfort—The Mother's Friend.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"My patients invariably praise the action of your Castoria."
W. W. TUPPER M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I use your Castoria and advise its use in all families where there are children."
J. W. DINSDALE, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"During my medical practice I know of several cases where your Castoria was prescribed and used with good results.
K. MORGNER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"Your Castoria is the best remedy in the world for children and the only one I use and recommend."
AGNES V. SWITLAND, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria is certainly the greatest remedy for children I know of. I know no other proprietary preparation which is its equal."
E. S. SCHWARTZ, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

"I have used your Castoria as a purgative in the cases of children for years past with most happy effect, and fully endorse it as a safe remedy."
M. D. BENNER, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

Everest's Summit Found 'Conquerable'

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 27.—Sir Francis Younghusband, addressing the Royal Geographical Society today, said that he feared that the breaking of the monsoon on June 3 had definitely frustrated the effort to reach the summit of Mount Everest but the climbers had accomplished much in spite of terrific weather. It had been ascertained that the final 1,700 feet of the mountain were not difficult.

TUNG KANG HAS 12-PLY PLAN TO SHUFFLE BONDS

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, June 24.—Minister Tung Kang's plan for the clearing from the market the bonds issued in excess of the number fixed for the legal issue of the Third and Fourth Years, has been approved by the Cabinet and he is about to put it into practice. To make his arguments the more pointed, he summed up his policy in twelve heads:

1. The excess Third Year Bonds issued amounted to $196,000; the Excess Fourth Year issue to $3,271,000; besides which there is $890,000 worth of currency bonds. These total up to $4,375,590. A new issue of 96 million bonds will be given to the creditors, thereby absorbing about 52 percent of the old excess issue. The old bonds thus taken in will be turned over to the Inspector General of Customs for cancellation. The remaining bonds of the excess issue will then be recognized as a special issue.

2. The amount of this special issue shall be kept as low as possible, with an estimated maximum of $2,800,000.

3. In redeeming the old bonds under this 96 million scheme, the Minister of Finance will see that all of the Third Year Bonds shall be called in, so that only Fourth Year ones shall be included in the Special Issue.

4. In redeeming Fourth Year Bonds, the Minister of Finance shall make sure that the bonds which won prizes shall be reclaimed first.

5. Creditors having these bonds for redemption shall send them either to the Inspector General of Customs or to the Commissioner of Customs, Shanghai, for registration and cancellation. Bonds not being redeemed should be sent to the same offices under separate cover to be sealed as part of the Special Bond Issue. The exact wording of this new seal will be determined later. The Minister will send representatives to consult with the Customs authorities on the best way to handle this cancellation.

6. The Minister shall prepare a table showing the numbers and amounts of bonds to be redeemed and these to be incorporated into the new special issue.

7. When the Inspector General of Customs and the Shanghai Commissioner of Customs has compared the bonds sent to them with the table issued by the Ministry and found them correct, they shall cancel such bonds and seal the others. They shall also publish in the newspapers the numbers of the bonds cancelled. The bonds converted to the new issue shall have their interest coupons paid beginning with those dated the 12th day of the 4th month of the 11th year, previous coupons shall be reclaimed and cancelled. These loan bonds shall have their principal paid, provided that there is sufficient funds for that purpose from the funds reserved for the Third and Fourth Year loans under the charge of the Director General of Customs on the 12th day of the 10th month of the 12th year of the Republic.

8. The Inspector General of Customs shall make announcement of the fact that there are sufficient funds to meet this payment when due.

9. The bonds issued in excess of the Third Year loan of the Tung Song Bank and those in excess of the Currency bonds of the Pao Li Company and Hua Mao Bank shall be redeemed in their entirety and cancelled. 52 percent of them shall be redeemed from a portion of the 96 million loan bonds and the remainder for the special Fourth Year excess bond issue under the acknowledgement of the Inspector General of Customs.

10. This special issue shall not exceed $2,800,000, out of which $2,000,000 shall be for the regular bond holders, $500,000 for the Pao Li Company and Hua Mao Bank to cancel their bonds, and $300,000 for the Bank of China and Bank of Communications to cancel bonds in excess of the Fourth Year Loan held by them.

11. The bonds issued in excess of the Fourth Year loan to the Chinese Steamship Navigation Company, having not originally been included in the 96 million, shall be acknowledged as part of the special bond issue.

12. These proposals shall be brought before the Cabinet and when approved by it notification will be sent to the Inspector General of Customs and the creditors to act accordingly.

Prince's Heir Loses Status And Becomes Subject

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, June 27.—The funeral of the late Prince Higashi Fushimi will, it is understood, be held on or about July 3 in the form of an Imperial Family funeral. It has been unofficially decided that the remains will be buried at the yard of the Gokukuji Temple at Otowa.

The heir of the deceased will not, it is reported, be ranked among princes of the blood but will descend to the status of a subject of Japan.

Prince Higashi Fushimi was promoted to Fleet Admiral on June 26 a few hours before he died.
